TO THE ISLAND

TOWN OF NAIFARU

Naifaru Island is known as one of the most populated small island in Maldives, and is more of a town island than a fishing or agricultural village island. More of a bustling community including a local bank, post office, School, Hospital and a selection of local restaurants and cafés.

Explore the winding streets and the people of the island, known to be lounging around the beach sides and small alcoves. The people of Naifaru are known among the nation for their distinctly strong dialect, manner of speech and sounds of local music and sights of smiling friendly faces which is common. The Island has some souvenir shops as well as basic local shops to explore and browse. It is also a great opportunity for you to visit the turtle conservation center

HISTORICAL JOURNEY TO ## KURENDHOO ISLAND

Situated on the south-western coast of the Atoll, Kurendhoo is known to have had settlement as early as the Buddhist period in Maldivian history predominantly used as an agricultural island due to the under soil being made of a very hard sedimentary layer of sand stone which holds moisture which had facilitated the composting of buried vegetable evidence that suggest various gardens in other nearby islands, and were renowned for their shallots.

Kurendhoo island is also known for the tomb of Sheikh Najeebul Habashee; a royal cleric who recited Quran and other prayers in the royal palace. The tomb is built on the very spot where he died and was buried, and is an attraction to many locals and tourists.
